Super Treasure Hunt Adventure is a 3D platform game based on a story arc set deep in North Carolina Forest around 1900. The story begins with a chance encounter with a charming raccoon named Sam Carlisle and an endless adventure that lead him into the ancient catacombs of the local plantation. As Sam gets deeper into the mysterious past he begins to unravel a dark puzzle involving treasures and secrets of unknown past civilizations. The game, as such, could very well be considered an action game, and it makes use of vivid visuals and cool 3D effects. Gameplay There are a total of 100 levels which include several smaller levels. Like most other games, the goal of the game is to find all the treasure chests before a time limit. The game is meant to be played in a 2 player mode, which is not much fun unless you are a very good team. They have a feature called "Grid Power" which makes it easier to play the game together. In each level, there is a control device called the Hunter which is located on the bottom of the screen. It makes things easier for you, the user, to maneuver, and it contains Sam's energy. There are two types of energy in the game, which is called "Life" and "Energy." The amount of energy that Sam has depends on his level with the total amount of levels being 100. When Sam runs out of life he dies. If Sam dies, you are thrown out of the level and have to start all over again. You'll also have to start your game at the beginning of the level if Sam dies. If you are playing the game in a 2 player mode, you both have access to Sam's life and energy. If there are only 2 players, you may just have to manage on your own. As mentioned earlier, Sam has certain abilities that let him move and jump around the game screen. The ability to run is quite limited and doesn't help much when there is an object in the way. The jump ability is fun and interesting. Sam can jump over objects as well as use the jump power more than once in a row to cover a lot of ground in a short amount of time. The powers also help Sam cross rope bridges, which are shown in certain levels. There are certain items around the environment that may help Sam, the character, become stronger when Sam holds on to them. The object of the game is pretty simple. All you have to do is find the treasure and exit the game,

Studios Nano Shift Studios, Inc. (NSS), is an American design and manufacturing company of medical and thermal protective clothing of all kinds. It is best known as the manufacturer of the Breathe Easy PPE line, including its signature, waterproof and 3M Scotchlite reflective logo-printed Breathe Easy Hoods/Face Shields. The company also manufactures other products for both military and civilian markets. The company was founded by Trevor McAlister (a Lieutenant Colonel in the United States Coast Guard Reserve) and Dr. Richard Bradley. McAlister launched the company as a nonprofit effort to develop and manufacture protective clothing and equipment for United States Coast Guard personnel who were suffering from post-traumatic stress after being exposed to the 2004 film 'Syriana' in 2005, when he noticed that many of his fellow service men and women were suffering from "post-Syriana" syndrome, the effects of psychological damage resulting from exposure to a single stressful incident. Background Nano's parent company is known for two major product lines. One product line is the FATED line (Founded on Enterprise Technology) of military-and law enforcement-grade, hard case chemical protective gear that the company formerly began development in support of the United States Coast Guard (USCG), and was focused on producing communications and radio technology hardware for the service. The second product line is Breathe Easy PPE, which the company has produced for both civilian and military markets, focused on the production of high quality, protective gear for public safety officers. Nano Shift Studios' manufacturing facility located in Corona, California produced approximately 180,000 Breathe Easy Hoods in the first quarter of 2014. Company profile Military Nano Shift Studios manufactures several different product lines. Military manufacturing support from Nano Shift is roughly 85–90% of their overall sales. Emergency medicine Nano Shift Studios provides medical emergency, trauma, and catastrophic medical products, which are used by the United States military and local law enforcement. Law enforcement Nano Shift Studios provides a number of emergency products to law enforcement, including, but not limited to, SWAT teams, rescue teams, and hazardous materials specialists. Insurance Nano Shift also provides protective gear to workers under the Worker's Compensation Program. Creative Currently they are developing medical high-visibility clothing for National Basketball Association teams as well as other brands. History The company developed 911
