Set this on a white heat and the red walls of the dining room will cast a nice contrast in an otherwise monochromatic scheme. Two pieces of furniture above the door, have given the room a lovely open feeling with access to the balcony and terrace. There is a nice pile of books stacked on the sideboard and on the bookshelves at the end of the room. The paint used here is a very subtle creamish colour, which complements the various shades in the white and dark wood. On the door we find the Outdoorsman logo which always looks great when used together with a warm colour. In the final picture you can also see a pattern on the pillows, which is created by the use of both the fabric and the backing material. It is a wonderful entry to the main part of the room where a long narrow table is set for four. This works very well as the background helps to make everything visible. In the corner a black leather sofa has been placed and in the middle of
